WANTS HOOVERFormer Congressman Sums His PersonalityPLANTS HIMSELF SQUARELYFriend Says He Is a Forward-
Looking Man.BY JOHN A. MARTIN
Former Congressman from Colorado

Herbert Hoover has compressed in short statements more political thought, and in better form, than has any public man since the end of the war.

Here is a single paragraph covering several pressing issues in which I believe Hoover plants himself squarely with the sober judgment of the great majority of American people:

"I could not vote with a party if it were dominated by groups who seek to set aside our constitutional guarantees for free speech or free representation; who hope to re-establish control to the government for profit and privilege. I could not vote with a party if it were dominated by groups who hope for any form of Socialism."

Compare the paragraph I have just quoted with the trimming, hedging, dodging, vote-catching platitudes of many so-called leaders.

Hoover is a forward-looking man with vision right down to now. For the first time in our history, the most conspicuous figure produced from the unknown by a war played the role of neither statesman nor soldier.

His war-schooling was in fields that fitted him for the problems of peace.

He knows the world's supplies and needs better than any living man.

He knows the structure of human society from cellar to garret.

Hoover is a dynamic man. He can jam as much action into a minute as he can thought into a sentence.

He has the youth, the health, the strength, the enthusiasm, and the will to sustain him in a long, hard race.

Hoover is broad, sane, progressive and optimistic. He has his cards on the table.

J. Y. Sanders.

NEW ORLEANS.—J. Y. Sanders of Louisiana has at last set out for his life's goal, a seat in the United States senate. He has risen step by step in politics with the senatorship in view, and his chief asset is personal acquaintance with about 75,000 voters in his state. That leaves only 15,000 he does not know.

"I can call 60,000 Louisiana voters by name," Sanders says, "ask them intimate questions about their business, or their families or about the old dog that got a thorn in its foot. I can't sit down and write the names, but I know the names."

While Sanders was governor there was a vacancy in the senate, but if he had resigned as governor the way would have been open for a lieutenant governor who was not in sympathy with the Sanders win of the party. So Sanders had to wait. The man he is trying to beat now is Edward James Gay.

Vessel Carrying Maryland Congressmen Arrives at Newport News

WASHINGTON.—The vessel Sylph carrying Maryland congressmen to launching of the dreadnaught Maryland, at Newport News, has arrived there safely; the navy department today advised the office of Representative Andrews, Maryland.

The congressmen on board the Sylph were Representatives Andrews, Benson, Coady, Lanthorn, Mudd, Zihman and members of their families.

The Sylph was reported missing, having failed to reach Newport News in time for the launching of the Maryland.

BERLIN.—The Berlin bourse hadn't stopped talking today about the recent one-man American raid perpetrated on it by a New Yorker after the regular Wall Street style.

The New Yorker, a bright chap connected with one of the biggest financial groups in the world, nearly caused a panic and incidentally made a nice cleanup for himself.

Walking into a noted brokerage house, he inquired:

"What have you got in the way of a stock that hasn't been doing much lately?"

"Let me see," replied the German, scanning the list. "Here's a colonial that has stayed for many months at about the same level with fluctuations of not more than a fraction either way."

"That's fine," replied the New Yorker. "Buy me so and so many of this colonial. Be sure you place the orders among about eight houses and then in an hour—"

"But, er, ah-ah," stammered the broker, "that's not the way we do business. It's quite out of the question."

"Do you want to make your commission or not?" asked the New Yorker coldly. That settled the matter and the orders were placed as per schedule.

The bourse woke up with a start. Buying of the colonial from seven or eight houses.

The gamblers woke up with a start and began to climb aboard. One hour later, the New Yorker sold out as he had ordered. His profits paid for his trip to Europe and back, and left him, as he said, "with a bit of spending money, to boot."

MAYOR GETS PROTESTS AGAINST DICE GAMES

Some are seeking to put the gambols of the "Mississippi Marbles" over the green cloth-covered board into the discard. Protests against the small cubical ivories with spots from one to six which decide whether you pay and get nothing or pay and receive 400 per cent on your investment, have reached the office of Mayor Burkhardt, in large consignments.

The moral attached to most of the protests is that the gay young blood always losses in his association with the dice.

Large consignments arrive and large consignments are dumped into the waste basket. The mayor has announced that most of the letters protesting against the dice in pool rooms are unsigned and follow the line of least resistance to the dumping ground.

Lenten Season Ending

Society Awaits Dawn of Easter and the Spring Tones

Week Offers Variety to the Lovers of Classical Music

THE Lenten season is rapidly drawing to a close. Fourteen more days from today is the glorious Easter Sunday, and womanhood is hoping that by then Mother Nature will have donned a mantle of emerald green, bordered with purple crocuses, with narcissus, dainty hyacinths peeping thru along with other representatives of the flowery kingdom that make their appearance unusually early.

Somewhat it seems much easier to have an "after" feeling in the midst of sun and flowers than in the face of a raw east wind and a driving rain.

This Lenten season has been unusual as women are almost as busy as in midwinter when brilliant entertainments were taking place. To be sure there are no large affairs, but all social amusements are carried on quite as of old, leaving only time to plan for spring outfits.

An unusually interesting affair is being arranged by the members of the Mercy Circle of Kind's Daughters for Wednesday of this coming week. It is to be a Lenten Tea given at the attractive home of Mrs. E. R. Lindesmith, Lincoln-ave. There will be a Lenten program with Mrs. Fred Gooding and Mrs. R. O. Wood as soloists and Mrs. Roy Banta, reader. Mrs. Fred Calvert will preside at the piano. The ways and means committee which is in charge of this affair includes: Mrs. Frank Moke, Mrs. C. E. Schell, Mrs. George L. Newson, Mrs. F. Hoffman, Mrs. Oliver Steiner, and Mrs. P. Durbin.

This will also be an enthusiastic week for the music lovers of Lima. On Friday evening the second of the Harman-Mills Music course will be given at the Memorial Hall. At this time the well known soprano, Miss Aurelia Lazzari, will appear in a joint recital with Ludolph Ganz, the famous Swiss pianist.

On Thursday afternoon recital of the Women's Music club will be given. It is not so many years since the organ, the big one, which has been always associated with the religious services purely as a component part of the program at church, was viewed as something apart from the rest of practical instruments. But times are changing. Some great organs have come from Europe an, astonished their hearers with performance ranked with the greatest of pianists and violinists. Then the organ was established in movies and lodge homes. The Women's Music club has already had one most enjoyable organ recital this season, in which the entire program was given by a professor at the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, while the recital is to be presented by Lima organists.

Included among the participants will be Miss Anna Cantwell and Miss Nell Keels, organ duo; Mr. Bertha Falk, soprano solo; Mrs. P. R. Marshall, organ solo; andante religioso, organ; Miss Cantwell; harp, Miss Gramma; violin, Mrs. G. C. Johnston; soprano solo, Mrs. Fred E. Gooding; organ solo, Miss Ray Heffner; closing with an invocation offered by Mrs. Dunifon on violin; Mrs. A. Dimond, cello; Miss Eysenbach, organ; and Miss Isham, piano. The place of the recital has not as yet been decided.

Beautiful in every detail was the wedding of Miss Ruth E. Knott to Glen O. Lundy, which occurred on Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride-groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lundy, 155 S. Pine-st. The home was beautifully decorated in yellow and white, with attractively arranged bowls of jonquills arranged about the rooms. Rev. Cecil Franklin read the impressive single ring ceremony. Mrs. George Johnston presided at the piano, playing Lohengrin's wedding march.

The couple were attended by Miss Harriet Meehling and Roy Drury, brother of the bride-groom. The bride was attired in a charming frock of white French organza and carried an attractive shower bouquet of violets and roses. Miss Meehling wore a suit of blue, tulle and lace. Her corsage was of sweet peas and roses.

Immediately following the ceremony an elaborate dinner was served. Covers were laid for: Mr. and Mrs. Tony Kooker and son, Harold; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kooker and daughter Miss Jeanette; J. A. Kooker, Miss Harris Meehling, Mrs. M. M. Metz, Mrs. Edward Penn, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Miller, Mrs. Selig, Mrs. D. Jones, Mrs. N. Perry, Mrs. G. Chambers, Kenneth Jones, Mr. and Mrs. R. Zeigler, and daughter, Helen; Mrs. George Radston, Mrs. E. Straker, Mrs. P. C. Clay, Mrs. Arthur Wells, and daughters, Misses Helen and Corinne; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Drury, and Roy and Mildred Drury. Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Crawford and sons, William and Edgar, Charles Knott, all of Wapakoneta, and Miss Corn Kaye, Newark, N. J.

The couple will make their home on S. Jameson-ave. after April 1st.

Mrs. H. C. McElroy was hostess to the members of the Walla Alla club with a delightful afternoon affair in the private tea room at the Regent on Thursday afternoon for the pleasure of Miss Nettie Johnson, Marion, a bride of the early spring. The affair was in the form of a handkerchief shower. At the conclusion of the afternoon of cards Mrs. Frank Winkler was successful. A delicious tea was served. Baskets of jonquills, attractively arranged, centered the table, and nut cups were daintily yellow affairs.

Guests included: Mrs. Lou Ford, Mrs. Mrs. Fred Orvic, Miss Geraldine English, Mrs. Alva McCartney, Mrs. Robert Johnston, Marion; Mrs. L. H. Mell, Mrs. Frank Winkler, Mrs. Harold Simons, Mrs. Paul Fells, Mrs. Alva Ransbottom, Mrs. Charles Alexander, and the guest of honor.

A number of friends of Mrs. Samuel Baumgardner gathered at her home on Tuesday afternoon reminding Mrs. Baumgardner of her birthday anniversary. A delightful afternoon was spent socially after which a dainty luncheon was served.

The Daughters of Veterans will entertain Tuesday evening with an affair at the Memorial Hall. This is to be given in celebration of the anniversary of the organization of the order.

HATS WITH BRIMS WILL TAKE PLACE OF SMALL TURBANS FOR LATE SUMMER WEAR

Turbans will not swing the pendulum of fashion this season. Even now when they are popular for street wear and afternoon wear they are not the dominating fashion of the hour. Although the small hat always has a place and appears to possess the power to remain fashionable in all seasons the hat with a brim of some kind will surely lead all others when real summer arrives. Just now hats with brims are having great vogue at the southern colonies. Here are two pretty styles which will be good for wear all through the summer season. The one above is fashioned of tan straw fabric trimmed with old rose. The old rose binds the brim and forms a band about the crown and embroidery in the same shade that trims the crown. The other hat is a smart little sailor shape with a turned up brim. It is henna and the facing taupe. A band of the two colors of straw is braided about the crown.

Others on the list were those who had assisted on the local American committee for Devastated France, and the workers along lines in war activities quite a formidable list if all could attend, which unfortunately was impossible.

The tables which were laid in the West room of the Club were centered with artistically arranged baskets of primroses and pussy willows.

Her serious study of literature especially of the drama, under the best instructors along these lines have brought forth much praise from students wherever she lectures.

Mrs. Showell's work in Lima was of a high order and cannot help promoting the love of good reading and study of the drama as well as a full or appreciation of several talented readers belonging to our own clubs.

Mrs. Clifford Staver, was hostess to the members of the El Platon club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Herbert Shippe gave several clever readings and in the contest Mrs. Chisman and Mrs. Nelson were successful. Mrs. Smiley received the guest prize. The next meeting of the club will be held with Mrs. Chenoweth, N. Washington-st.

Mrs. J. Edwards entertained the members of the Social Circle club at her home on Wednesday. Attractively arranged narcissus and spring flowers were used effectively throughout the rooms of the Edwards home. In a clever contest Mrs. R. D. ### An Independent Income For Your Wife

It would give you intense satisfaction, would it not, if you could settle on your wife an independent income?

—Money coming to her regularly, never failing her, no matter what misfortunes overtake you, what lapse or shrinkage in your income?

If you adopt the simple and practical "Lima Trust Plan" for creating or enlarging an estate, you can accomplish this laudable purpose.

You can create, with partial payments, an Estate entirely separate from your own, and not subject to the vicissitudes of your own fortune.

You need not segregate from your income or profits at one time sufficient cash or securities to create this Estate.

You can arrange at your death it will pass to her at once, that the income from it will not be interrupted by probate proceedings and that it will be kept securely, always for her benefit.

We have prepared a booklet which explains this plan fully. It opens remarkable opportunities for the man of moderate means. Ask for booklet "The Lima Trust Plan" for Creating or Enlarging an Estate.

BONDS FOR LIGHT

CITY council proposes to place a bond issue of $150,000 before the voters at the coming primary, the money to be used, if used at all, for building or equipping a municipal light plant in connection with the waterworks. The members announce that this is a safety measure and that the money will not be spent unless the Ohio Electric takes an arbitrary stand on the franchise now in its hands.

SHOULD these bonds be issued they will be a charge against the city, which already has a large bonded debt. They will increase its liabilities and the money cannot be used for anything but a light plant. The voters passed an issue some years ago for the same project; the bonds were issued and the money re-invested. The city is some thousands of dollars ahead on this deal since the bonds had a low interest rate and the proceeds from their sale were re-invested in securities of a higher return. The transaction made the issue self-sustaining and left a profit, now something more than $9,000. With the money market in a critical condition there is little chance that such a deal could be made with the bonds now proposed and they would stand as an expensive debt if not used for a lighting plant.

THE re-organization of the Ohio Electric a few days ago furnishes a reasonable excuse for some delay in accepting the light franchise which council cut to ribbons before sending it to the company. The Ohio Electric must borrow three or four million dollars on the franchise and with money hard to get, transaction of this kind is not to be neglected before bankers will accept it.

THERE appears little excuse for the bonds the council will ask a vote upon. There are a number of improvements for which bonds could be used with profit, and if bonds are to be voted they should be for something more tangible than a stuffed club over a public utility. It is certain that the Ohio Electric needs Lima as much as Lima needs it. Fair and square business dealings on both sides will create better relations than the coercive tactics being practised by council.

WATCH EUROPE

EUROPE is again in a state of chaotic delirium. Little has been heard regarding Russia during the past several months, but enough is known in financial circles to assert that Russia is in bankruptcy; its people starving; its industry, stagnated.

NOW COMES Germany, a nation of industry, reported as flirting with the Goddess of Bolshevism; strikes the main outdoor sport; famine the indoor horror. France is worried, fearing a spread of the disease into her borders. Austria and central Europe seem hopeless.

GREAT Britain is steadily gaining in its fight of reconstruction and sterling has advanced to a point where exports can be expected to again go towards London in some volume, especially cotton and grains. Europe holds the fate of the world in its hand and what occurs there in the summer months will affect not only the United States but every country on the globe.

IT'S POPULAR

How fast is the City Manager idea spreading thruout the United States? Mighty fast. In 1910, 23 cities were added to the list of cities having city managers. So far in 1920, five more cities have adopted city managers. They are Beaumont, Tex.; Norman, Okla.; Hampton, N. Y.; Dubuque, Ia.; and Watervliet, N. Y. Dubuque, with a population of 40,000, is the largest of the five. Beaumont ranks second, with a population of 30,000.

MISS LIMA: "Maybe the girls you see shivering in the cold March blizzards with the low-neck dresses are hoping it will help them learn some of the new dances."

NOW that Toledo has the right to buy a street car system, why not offer it ours?

MUNICIPAL light plants run like our waterworks, by politicians, are not very good recommendations to get votes for bonds.

WHEN you get splashed with mud while walking along our streets please just remember that the April showers will help wash away the dirt.

WOMEN do not care to keep secrets, therefore the suggestion of the film actresses that they wear more clothes to hide their secret charms probably will not be secreted.

SUPERVISING DANCING

THERE may be good reasons why the city should have a commission to supervise public dances, such as Mayor Burkhardt has named. This form of amusement has become almost a craze in recent years and new, suggestive dances which have swept the country have brought much criticism.

LIMA HAS not been without complaints on this score. With numerous dance halls where the younger folk congregate several nights a week, and more or less unrestrained entertainments in parks in the summer season, there has been criticism. The fact that proprietors of halls allow "moonlight" dances where there are no lights at all; and permit other style dances which have come under the ban have led to the naming of this city board to keep an eye on our various public entertainments.

THE POOR BO

A tramp drew near a cottage door,
And rapped upon the sill;
A kind old lady looked him o'er,
And beamed with her good will.

He said: "Kind friend, in me you
Lump
A cold and hungry bo;
I'm sure you'd keep a poor old
Tramp
From starving in the snow."

The lady listened open-eyed;
His smile lit up the gloom;
She quickly turned and went inside,
Then came back with the broom.

"You shall not starve upon the snow,
It is too cold to lie on;
But you shall take this broom,
poor bo,
And clean a place to die on."

As Tom Edgewood, the novelist, might have said, and in fact, did say, to us the other evening as we sat with our feet on the table of a Greenwich spaghettiium:

"If properly worked out there are a lot of advantages to be gotten out of the author's trade beside actual payment for work done. An author can wear last Monday's shirt at Friday's dinner party—and get away with it. An author need only have his hair cut when it begins to tickle between his shoulder blades. When in the society of stock brokers, snow shovelers, editors of street car conductors, embalmers or Broadway sports, an author is never expected to say anything in a restaurant except, 'Well, I do feel a little peckish.' The only time an author is supposed to buy anything is when he is out with an actor or an interior decorator, and too much care cannot be given by writers to see that they do not fall into such company."

The Colonial Dames are starting a movement to re-establish old-fashioned, pre-revolutionary courtesy towards women in this country. They claim there is a singular lack of courtesy and consideration of other days.

But, when we elbow a lady off the platform of a street car, don't we always say, "Excuse me?" When we blow our cigar smoke in her face, don't we always say "Pardon?" Don't we always mutter an apology when we knock her hat off with our elbow or unconsciously drop our gloves into her soup at the dinner-table?

Courtesy? You hear it on every hand. You may not see it, but you hear it—so it must be there, if you get what we mean.

THE INADEQUACY OF WORDS.
(From the Jefferson County, Col., Republican.)

Oh, boy! We had the most pleasant surprise of our life Sunday. While cleaning out the cellar we came across, in an obscure corner, a couple of bottles of beer—the genuine stuff—that had been there for about two years. Words cannot indicate the pleasure we had in destroying them.

BUSINESS

WAIVING ASIDE declines in exports, firm markets at very little concessions, money tightness but more conservative in rate, business lurched forward during the week, aided and abetted by the stock dividend decision which permits corporations with big surplus accounts to recapitalize and thus reduce excess profits.

WHAT WAS true in New York and throught the East, is true in Lima and the district. Values in real estate are firming in Lima especially within the business district; while vacant lots in residential districts are being picked up by prospective builders.

VIEWED AT any angle, there is no reason to expect any softening in the price of lumber and in accessory building supplies. Concrete will largely supplant lumber and tile will be substituted for brick in modest building, while steel construction will be utilized on business properties. This means more fire-proof buildings at virtually no higher costs.

INDUSTRIALLY, the week has seen a persistent inquiry for men at local factories, with the housing condition blocking efforts to a decided degree. Single men are being attached to pay-rolls but men with families balk when no rental properties are in sight. Real estate rental agencies declare an absolute famine in houses, apartments or flats. Estimates are that 1200 homes are needed in Lima this summer. This is probably high so far as concentrated building is concerned for private concerns will continue to operate for sale, but community means must be developed for erection of strictly renting property.

FOR THE masses, government statistics from the Labor Bureau show a decline in the costs of three percent, while wholesalers of meat and jobbers in fruits, canned goods, produce and staples report continued softening markets.

WITH THE exception of leather, or wearables give little indication of declines, and ready-to-wear and dry goods generally, along with furniture, jewelry and luxuries can be expected to remain high in price over the counter for six months to come. Optimism is becoming a fever, and the bull side is now again the popular side for 1920.

HEALTH ADVICE

By William Brady, M. D.

HEALTH IN THE LAST STAGES

A fellow certainly has to laugh at some of the ideas people badly infected with the health bug harbor. A favorite one is that tea and coffee are bad for one's nerves, stomach or something. I often think of these people as I put away one or two cups of the finest coffee to be found in this world every morning at breakfast.

Then there is the army of deep breathers. These unfortunate must suffer agonies worrying about getting their diaphragms tangled up with their bread baskets, or inhaling 3 per cent too much ozone. If there is any one I sympathize with it is the man who practices deep breathing. I'd hate to have his bug.

Of all infected with the health bug the chap that sprays his nose and gargles his throat to protect himself from disease which is going around is probably the most hopeless. He could be weaned away from his imaginary prophylaxis as readily as grandma could be persuaded that it does her no harm to get her feet wet occasionally.

Another sufferer with whom I might sympathize if it would help at all is the man or woman that strives to avoid drafts in his quest for fresh air. He is related by marriage—assuming there is any other way of being related—with the peak who ascribes his aches and pains and intoxications and infections to dampness in the cellar, the bedclothes or the atmosphere.

Several million credulous souls who are prevailed upon to wash their teeth occasionally for the sake of applying antiseptic chemicals and aromatic flavors with the soap would probably not brush their teeth at all with just plain soap and water, so I shall say nothing about them.

I do sympathize savagely with those good housewives who still set vessels of disinfecting solutions here and there in the belief that they are adding one iota to the sanitary safety of the household. Do they expect the disease germs to gather round the poison wells and jump in, overwhelmed with remorse? Do they imagine that disease germs really "hark" anywhere, except in the sensations or discharges from the invalid? They do, all right—at least they waste a lot of perfectly good disinfectants in this silly manner.

THE WOMAN WHO LOVED AND EARNED

ROBERT SINGS MARION HOVEY'S PRAISES.

Robert went to the funeral—as I supposed he would. It was held in the middle of the day, and I did not feel warranted in asking to be let off. I proposed Aunt Felicia should go, but when Robert said he should also go to the cemetery, she decided it would be too tiring for her, so she remained at home.

Robert seemed to have no slightest compunctions at asking for a day's absence from the store, although it was their busy season. I said nothing to him—he was becoming so sensitive over his position—but I thought it very foolish in him. He had told me several times that his employer hated to have his men absent themselves. That he thought their yearly vacations were all that was necessary, unless it were an absolute necessity that caused them to remain away; I did not consider Marion Hovey's father an absolute necessity, nor Marion herself.

Aunt Felicia and I had finished dinner when Robert came in. He quickly ate a bite; then, after we were in our rooms, he said:

"I think Marion was disappointed that you did not go with me today."

"Could not afford to go. Madame does not like us to be away during the busy season. I have my own customers you know, if they don't find me, they will refuse to buy of anyone else, and sometimes go elsewhere for their hats."

"You know your own business of course. But I think you would have gone. I saw he was pained."

"Were Jane and Betty there?"

"At the house, yes. They did not go to the cemetery. Betty staid at the house and helped to make things comfortable. She said she never would have believed that Marion could have things so nice—really so too. She said there was nothing for her to do, except open the windows and let the sunlight in—I do hope when I have a funeral you want let the undertaker shut the house up so that it resembles a tomb."

"Don't go off on a tangent about your own funeral, tell us about Marion. What were you saying about her? What did she have that was so nice?"

"Betty said the pantry was full of things to eat. All she had to do for supper tonight was to set the table and put on the food Marion had prepared. She said something for the comfort of the relatives had been forgotten, and that Marion had done it all."

"She must be a very wonderful girl. Aunt Felicia remarked, 'Or she is so accustomed to cook and care for others that it is second nature.'"

"That's it, aunt!" Robert interrupted, "she is accustomed to caring for others, and also to cook. She is the most unselfish girl I know, as well as one of the most capable."

"When you have finished singing her praises perhaps you will tell me what your boss said when you asked him to give you the day?" I could not keep the bitterness from my voice. I had scarcely seen Robert for a week—the last three days he had spent with Marion Hovey.

"He groused but I didn't care. I would have lost my position rather than have failed Marion."

"I did not think you cared quite as much as that." I did not intend to say quite that, but the words slipped out. Aunt gave me one of her quick bird-like glances, her head on one side, but said nothing neither did Robert reply.

"I am rather tired, I think I will go to bed. She said after a rising moment's silence."

"Good night," Robert said, rising. "I will go to the corner for a cigar before I turn in."

I made no move to detain him. In fact, I did not raise my eyes from the magazine I was pretending to read. I had foolishly allowed myself to feel jealous of Marion Hovey, and would say nothing more for fear I would show it still more plainly than I had already done.

An hour had passed before Robert came back. I saw that he had been drinking—not too much, perhaps, but it made me uneasy. I feared by lack of appreciation of Marion Hovey, my sarcastic remarks had made him reckless of what he did to hurt me.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthosulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation. Menthosulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It never fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Menthosulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

SERVICE STATION

Prest-O-Lite
STORAGE BATTERY

Why a "Battery Service?"

BECAUSE the thousands of storage batteries in use on cars today require certain care and periodical tests to keep them in condition.

In (Marion) County alone, there are (20,000) automobiles which carry batteries, representing quite a serious responsibility for the few really good Battery Service Stations equipped and competent to reduce battery troubles and to prescribe the proper treatment when they do occur.

To do our bit in serving the thousands of car owners who look to "the Oldest Assistance to Automobile Owners in America" for advice and expert assistance in battery matters, we have equipped ourselves to represent The Prest-O-Lite Co., Inc., as an Official Service Station for this district.

We are running the kind of Service Station you will appreciate. It is our policy to give the kind of service that will make every customer a permanent one.

Service on all Makes of Batteries

No matter what car you drive, you are invited to call on us to inspect and test your battery. We make no charge for this service. We render it gladly as a feature of Prest-O-Lite Service. We also recharge and repair all makes of batteries.

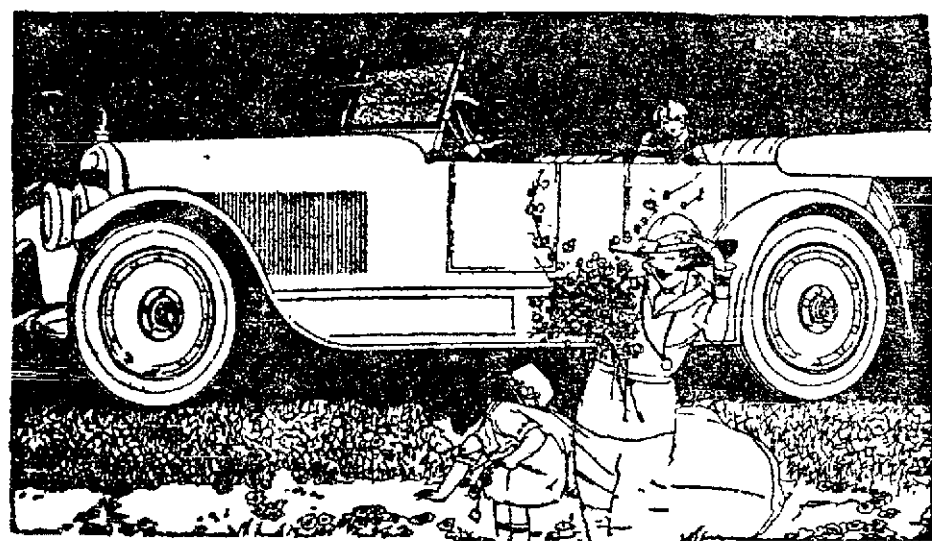

Eventually you will need a new battery. When you do, we will be ready with the correct size—a Prest-O-Lite—the one battery for those who haven't the time nor the inclination to study the mechanics of a battery or assume the care of one.

We want to serve you because we know we can serve you better. We are looking for a chance to prove it.

THE JORDAN SILHOUETTE FIVE

Ease of handling is comparative. The ocean liner is easy to handle in the open ocean with leagues of water in which to maneuver. But the Silhouette Five is like the swift white launch darting in and out among the harbor shipping.

It is instantly responsive to the gentlest pressure. The Jordan arrangement of the steering apparatus is a marvel of precise control. The perfect balance of the car, the careful distribution of weight, the length and strength of springs and the delicate suspension of all contribute to unerring forward motion, with no side-sway.

In its application of power, the Jordan Silhouette is supreme. Acceleration is not a leap but a swift, plane-like glide. There is no jerking or struggling—the road simply flows past.

Women appreciate the ease and restfulness of driving the Silhouette Five as they appreciate its fashionable lines, its harmonious coloring and its perfect appointments.

They welcome a distinctly fine light car—a five passenger car in which quality has been made the compelling ideal.

A thankful letter about the benefits received from using Sulphur Tablets. Its effects are like grandmother's remedy of sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses. But this consists of sulphur, cream of tartar and herbs, in a sugar-coated tablet, easy and pleasant to use, for bad blood, stomach, liver and bowel disorders.

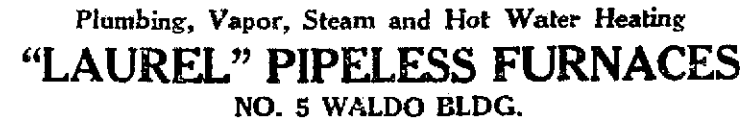

Mr. John M. Plemons, Ringgold, Georgia, writes: "I had an awful bad case of stomach trouble and constipation, and had the service of a specialist with only temporary relief. I saw an advertisement of Sulphur Tablets and began using them, and in a short time noted very good results, and I further used them, and at this time am perfectly well as far as I can tell. I don't recommend anything unless I receive some good results. Some friends use them and they also note good results, etc." Drugists sell Sulphur Tablets everywhere. Don't take ordinary "sulphur" tablets and be disappointed.

AT THE ROYAL
At the Royal today and tomorrow will be seen the clever little actress, Mary Nash in the Monopoly Attraction, "The Road to Tears," which is from the pen of Thomas Dickinson. Miss Nash plays the part of Rose, engaged to be married to John Bradford, a rising young attorney and a factor in politics. Through Bradford's neglect of her, she becomes acquainted with Arthur Jenkins, son of the political boss of the state, and after a short friendship, she is to run away and get married. Jenkins' father, thru his political influence, not only prevents the marriage, but has Rose committed and under surveillance. Thru the influence of a welfare workers, Rose is freed only to be again hounded by Jenkins in a struggle which follows. Jenkins is killed in a tenement fire, while Rose is again in a position to enjoy the life to which she is entitled. Then follows her reconciliation to Bradford. Besides this can be seen the two-reel comedy sketch featuring Gail Renny in "House Talent."

Mary Pickford in "The Hoodlum"

AT DREAMLAND
Dreamland today has a very attractive Sunday bill. Ruth Roland who won such fame in "The Tiger's Trail" and "Roads Up" will play the stellar role in the second chapter of "The Adventures of Ruth," entitled "Kidnapped." In this chapter the heroine has some hairbreadth escapes from the Chinese kidnappers and who have a secret society second to none. It is not too late to start this serial at 11 o'clock. The very cleverly written serial in the Public News is full of up-to-the-minute events. The monkeys, Napoleon and Sally create much fun at 11 o'clock. So much for the serial in intelligence, a "Snub Pollard" and his little pickamoon in "Slippers" at 11 o'clock create much fun.

Prepare Your Cough Medicine At Home
Save 400 Per Cent.
Don't Pay $2.00 A Pint For Syrup.

If you want a cough medicine that is surely fine for coughs, colds, hoarseness, bronchial affections, croup and throat irritations, get 3 oz. of Glando Pine (50 cts. worth) with full directions for preparing and you can make a full pint of excellent cough medicine. Glando Pine gets right at the cause of a cough. The first dose relieves, it opens the air cells and makes you breathe easy. Children love to take it. When prepared according to directions it will not separate as some of the inferior cough remedies do.

Geo. Polick, a painter and decorator, of Logansport, Ind., says "I took a severe cold which settled all through my system. I had severe pains in my chest and lungs. My throat was swollen and sore. Glando Pine gave me relief almost instantly. I consider it very fine for coughs and colds."

Mrs. John Poller of 359 S. Williams St., Paulding, Ohio, said "I neglected to doctor a cold which settled on my lungs. My cold grew worse until I coughed almost constantly. I began to spit blood. I lost in weight and looked so bad that people thought I had tuberculosis. I finally tried Glando Pine. The first bottle helped me. I continued its use until I was cured. I firmly believe that Glando Pine saved my life."

To avoid disappointment be sure you get Glando Pine. Once you have used it you will never want to be without it in the home. Manufactured only by the Gland-Aid Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

and it is a wonder that more of these horsemen are not hurt than there really are. The perilous jump is a deed of daring few would attempt. Al Jennings, the famous outlaw, presents another of his adventures which ended with poor results for himself in "Bandit's Gold," and which was both cleverly written and acted. The Keystone comedy as well as the new screen monologue entitled "Screen Follies," is very well received.

RIALTO
"Thieves" is about to end its run here after having made an unusually good record for itself and gained fresh fame for the William Fox star, Gladys Brockwell.

A ten best performance of this intense, human photoplay which has been drawing crowded houses at the Rialto theater, will be given today.

Altogether it is a tale of love and romance. "Let Katy Do It" which will appear at the Rialto for three days, starting tomorrow, will have a strong appeal for the kiddies. For the seven orphans in the picture are seven of the most irresistible and fascinating youngsters who ever appeared on a screen, and their antics will bring forth roars of merriment. Gladys Brockwell's progeny increased with alarming rapidity and as each new baby arrived, it was turned over to Aunt Katy, whose sincere love for the little ones soon caused them to love her more than they did their mother. At the death of Prince and her husband, Katy took her brood to Mexico, where her uncle owned a silver mine, and there she met once more a sweetheart of childhood days. Now it's one thing to marry the girl you love and assume the care of seven children is quite another thing. But before long he was to regard these seven troublesome little pests with affection and love, for they play a very important part in "Let Katy Do It," when they save the life of Oliver's sweetheart and incidentally gain for themselves a brand-new daddy.

QUERIES SENT TO CANDIDATES

Farmers Ask Answers to Questions On Policies

WASHINGTON—Fifteen active or prospective presidential candidates today were in receipt of questionnaires from the National Board of Farm Organizations, representing farmers groups throughout the nation, for clear and definite replies to a dozen important questions.

The questionnaires were submitted to Vice President Marshall, Senators Johnson, Ponder, Harding, Leavitt and Owen, Governors Cox, Sprout, Coolidge, Goodrich, Lowden, Herbert Hoover, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, William Jennings Bryan.

C. S. Barrett, president of the farmers' nations group, said: "We have started something that we will stay with to the finish. This questionnaire is a statement of principles, not a perfunctory inquiry as to where candidates stand on certain questions."

The questions are:

Will you do your best to bring about such direct dealing between producer and consumer as will secure to the farmer a fair share of the wealth they create, reduce the cost of living to the consumer and limit or destroy the opportunity of the profiteer?

Will you do all that in you lies to secure to all farmers and consumers the full free and unquestioned right to organize and to purchase and sell co-operatively?

Will you see that the farm people of America are represented on general boards and commissions in whose membership various interests are recognized whether or not the work is directly concerned with agriculture?

Will you appoint a secretary of agriculture who knows actual farm conditions who is satisfactory to the farm organizations of America and who will cause to be made comparative studies of farm production costs at home and abroad and publish the uncensored facts?

Will you take the action necessary to ascertain and make public all obtainable facts concerning the great and growing evil of farm tenancy so that wrongs may be taken to check, reduce, or end it?

Will you do your best to secure improved personal and commodity credit facilities on reasonable terms, for farmers?

Will you earnestly endeavor to secure to co-operative organizations of farmers engaged in interstate commerce service and supplies equal in all respects to those furnished private enterprises under like circumstances?

The railroads have been returned to their owners; if at the end of two years of further trial of private ownership the railroads fail to render reasonably satisfactory service to the people, will you favor then reopening the railroad question?

Will you use your best efforts to secure the payment of the war debt chiefly thru a highly graduated income tax or otherwise, by those best able to pay?

Will you earnestly strive to uphold and enforce the national conservation policy and especially to stop forest devastation which has already more than doubled the price of lumber and paper to the consumer?

Will you do your best to secure and enforce effective national control over the packers and other great interstate combinations of capital, engaged in the manufacture, transportation, or distribution of food and other farm products and farmers' supplies?

Will you respect and earnestly strive to maintain the right of free speech, free press, and free assembly?

UNREST IS LAID TO ALIENS

They Cause Disturbances In Spanish Cities

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON.—If revolution ever breaks out in Spain and overthrows the government, the impulse will come from leaders in Madrid, Saragossa and Barcelona.

The claim of those loyal to the government is that the present unrest in Spain is not prevalent among the trades unionists, but among the syndicalists, encouraged by foreigners.

In Saragossa there was an attack upon the troops by the syndicalists. In Bilbao a syndicalist conspiracy was unearthed whereby it was proposed to poison the water cisterns at the St. Orme works.

In Barcelona workers organized a lockout against their men and the men organized a counter-strike.

There has been a succession of troubles ever since.

THE KEY TO HEALTH

Why You Should INVESTIGATE

Your greatest hindrance in you obtaining health is a prejudiced mind filled full of tales or some fellow whose business is being lost through all of his cases going to the Chiropractor and obtaining health.

CHIROPRACTIC IS Giving the "INCURABLES" their Health.

CHIROPRACTIC IS Giving the "BLIND" their SIGHT; the DEAF their HEARING.

CHIROPRACTIC IS Giving the "PARALYZED" their Strength.

The other day a mother brought her son to me who was suffering from a form of facial paralysis. In this state he could not close his right eyelid or use the right side of his face. After the first adjustment there was a remarkable improvement and today after the 4th adjustment all symptoms of paralysis have disappeared. Call and see for yourself.

Chiropractic is doing wonders in Lima today, and now while the onset of your trouble is still in the "acute stage" you should consult a capable Chiropractor AT ONCE. Be careful in your choice of a Chiropractor.

KNOWLEDGE of the methods of spinal adjustment such as I use CONVINCES the prejudiced mind of its value in successfully overcoming disease owing to its scientific points PARAMOUNT of all other systems or health methods.

The Scientific Chiropractic Adjustment is recommended as the most scientific adjustment known to the profession by the world's greatest Chiropractic authority—Dr. B. J. Palmer.

THE BARREL MYSTERY

BY WILLIAM J. FLYNN

Former Chief of the United States Secret Service and Now in Command of All Secret Activities Against Bolshevists, Anarchists, and Other Radical Reds in America

The Black Hand Doctor

COMITO comes to the conclusion of his story:

"I had been at the farmhouse about a month and a half when, on the night of January 4, 1919, about eight o'clock, six men came into the house and, motioning me not to move, declared that I and Caterina were under arrest."

"But who are you?" I asked in Italian.

"We are government officers," one of them replied in Italian, and he showed me his shield.

"Well, the place is at your disposal," I said, sitting down on a chair and smoking my pipe, feeling quite sure of myself.

"When they had finished searching the rooms and us personally they brought Caterina and I to the office of the Federal Secret Service (United States Secret Service) and we were taken to the head of the service, a Mr. William J. Flynn. To him I had no courage to deny what I had done and confessed all. I assumed all the responsibility for Caterina, and told everything without any thought of getting off without punishment. Following my arrest the Secret Service man arrested Cino, Giglio, Uncle Salvatore, Sylvester and Lupo. On January 28, 1919, Ignazio Lupo, Giuseppe Morello, Antonio Cecala, Salvatore Palermo, Giuseppe Calichio and Nick Sylvester appeared before the Judge of the United States Court to answer the indictment of making and passing counterfeit money."

"It appeared before the jury in the Federal Court as a witness, repeating what I had confessed to the Secret Service men. I did not contradict myself on cross-examination when the defense tried to show that I was a Calabrian bandit and had come to America for the purpose of joining with the law and justice, and that I was telling 'stories' and thus having eight innocent and perfect gentlemen condemned."

"I was not disturbed at the assault made upon my character by the ignorant Italian press, who through libels and threats of many kinds tried to shake my determination. I only laughed when I read and heard of those things."

"The Black-Hand crowd should be destroyed. The one great blow that started the downfall of this murderous hand of outlaws has been dealt by William J. Flynn, when he sent to prison the arch-bandits Lupo and Morello, and the lesser evils, Cecala, Cino, Giglio, etc."

"My final word here is that my purpose in giving testimony before the Secret Service was not done to have eight fathers of families condemned, but for the purpose of removing from among us eight Sicilian criminals who terrified and preyed upon honest men under the leadership of murderers of the worst type that are a menace to civilization."

(Signed) Antonio Viola Comito."

There are characters in this story of Comito of whom he never got a chance until the case came to trial. There are still others involved of whom he never even heard; in fact, not a few of the fish are in the net of the Secret Service whose names probably will never be revealed to the public. This circumstance does not prevent me, however, from surrounding Comito's statement with certain additional facts that may serve to illuminate the plan followed by Lupo and Morello in building up their sinister organization.

It often happens that disputes occur among the different elements of the Italian criminals in New York City and in other parts of this country. For instance, the Neapolitan element deals almost exclusively in the traffic of women. Sometimes this business is invaded by a hostile group from among the Sicilian element. Invariably quarrels result and the disputes nearly always end in a shooting or a stabbing affair.

It is well known to the Service that the quarrels of the Italian criminals among themselves are settled without the help of the police whenever this is at all possible. When a gang member is wounded, secrecy requires that no ambulance be called or a doctor summoned who is not a friend of the gang. This precaution is easily appreciated when one comes to think that a call for an ambulance would require the presence of a policeman and a public report being made of the affair. Again, should a doctor, who is not known to the gang, be called in, he is required to make a record of the occurrence and report any suspicious injury to the police. If there is a death the coroner must needs be notified. To avoid entanglement and trouble with the authorities the various gangs have impressed in their service a physician or two who may be relied upon to bind up the wounds and keep the affair a secret. Many murders are in this way covered up and escape the attention of the police and the public.

There was a man at the trial of the counterfeiters who was unknown to Comito. Upon this man's testimony Morello expected to prove that he was ill in the house during the period that he was actually out and around and very active in the counterfeiting scheme.

Dr. Salvatore Romano is the man. The doctor perjured himself and testified to please Morello, whose vengeance he feared.

After being indicted by the Federal Grand Jury, we were able to get a statement from Dr. Romano. Incidentally this statement disclosed the method whereby Morello and Lupo gathered their first money by sending "Black-Hand" letters to countrymen who were suspected of having money, or who could in any way be coerced into being useful to the gang.

Dr. Romano's cross-examination follows:

Q. Tell us, doctor, from the beginning, how you happened to get mixed up; start from the time you knew Mr. Morello.

A. I met him in this country. He was living in East One Hundred and Seventh Street; we were living at East One Hundred and Sixth Street. He comes from the same town that my grandmother and mother hail from in Sicily—Corleone—and while I was studying in my third year at the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia, my folks received a letter from a "Black-Hand" Society.

Q. Who received it?

A. My mother.

Q. She knew Morello how long previously to this?

A. She had known him on the other side; never had anything to do with him here.

Q. About when was it she got this "Black-Hand" letter?

A. Seven years ago; I was a third-year student in the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Q. What was the substance of the letter?

A. The substance of the letter was that unless a certain amount of money was paid they would kill me. Naturally, my folks did not tell me anything at all about it for fear that I would get excited, neglect my studies, and so fall in my examinations. The folks kept the thing quiet for a few days. The "Black-Handers" also said that if anything were told to the police authorities the murder would take place anyway—money or no money. You see, my father was not here. I was a young man, my brother was a small boy, and my family did not know what to do at the time. My grandmother, though, knew this man Morello to be mixed up with people of questionable character, and so she went to him or he happened to meet her (I don't know which); anyway, she confided the thing to Morello. He said: "All right, don't get excited; they don't kill people off at once. Wait until you get another letter. Then we will see if we can't get the party who writes those letters."

Finally, another letter was written. Then a third, and a fourth letter came. Morello always took the letters under the pretext of studying the handwriting and to find out the origin of the letter. Eventually, he found out the origin of the letter, he said, and—

Q. What was the origin?

A. Never found out. He just said that he had found out that they were willing to settle for $1,000. But that he would pay $100 and that he would make sure they returned the money to him after they found out who he was. He said that we need not worry any more.

Q. Did you pay the $100?

A. No, Morello offered to pay the $100 himself and expected to get it back. He said: "I will pay and see that they return it to me."

Q. Who would return it?

A. Those people would return the money again to him.

Q. He said that he would pay the money and that he would get it back from the Black-Handers?

A. Yes. Then the whole thing quieted down and naturally my people thought they were under obligations to this man Morello. And then when the danger was over my folks told me about it and remarked about what a terrible thing we had escaped.

About three or four months later Morello came around and said to my mother:

Q. Did you hear him?

A. No. She told me.

(Continuing) "I have a notion to get married. I'm in with a woman who has a baby as the result of our relations. Now that I want to get married, I want to break off this relation, and it is not convenient to you. I would like to bring this baby, this little girl, to your house until everything is arranged."

Q. That is the illegitimate child?

A. She could walk; was over one year old.

Q. Who was the woman?

A. I do not know.

Q. At that time he lived on Chrystie Street?

A. No. I understand he had a restaurant. Of course, my folks said that it was no trouble for them. There were three or four women in the house, and it would be no trouble for them to take care of the little child.

Q. All the time you thought that you were under obligations to him?

A. Yes; just for that thing.

Q. Don't you know who the woman was?

A. No; never saw her.

Q. Sure you didn't?

A. No.

Q. Do you know her?

A. No, she was a Sicilian. I don't know her personally.

Q. Is she living?

A. I imagine she is.

Q. What was her name? What was she called?

A. Didn't know at all. Probably my grandmother would know.

Q. Was this after or before the barrel murder?

A. I think the barrel murder was after that.

A. Yes. And so the baby was brought to our house and we took care of it, it etc. but I got no pay.

Q. Did you ever ask them for any?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. On account of the obligations; also the familiarity. Right from the start I thought that I was doing a wise thing not to ask for money for my services.

Q. What did you know about Morello about that time?

A. No folks had told him all about those letters and he had fixed it all up; we had no disturbance because we were under his protection.

Q. Did you know that you were under his protection?

A. I knew as well as the family did.

Q. What protection did you think that he could give you?

A. Receiving no disturbance from the "Black-Handers."

Q. Did you know that he was connected with the "Black-Handers" then?

A. I did not know that he was a "Black-Hander," but I knew from the fact that he had arranged everything that he must have known something about these people.

Time I became the regular physician for those people and never got any pay. In the meantime I tried to get as much hospital experience as I could and got out of New York, because, if a man goes out of New York to a strange place without any experience—

Q. Why did you want to leave New York?

A. Not because I was afraid, not because they were doing anything to me, but because I was tired of doing work money they bought a lot, built a house and sold it, and got a dividend of 40 per cent. You could then either take the dividend, and put the money in your pocket, or leave it and it would go on the share. So most of the people left their money to go to their credit.

Q. Who got the money?

A. They claimed there was a big boom in real estate and they made another deal; they got 35 or 39 per cent dividend. Then they started to build eight tenement houses, four on One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Street and four on One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, near Cyprus Avenue.

At the time they were building the crash came.

They took advantage of the prices and said: "We have not enough money to keep on; the shareholders will have to come together and pay more money on each share."

I paid $15 extra on each share. At that time my mother had acquired eight shares. She had bought another for herself. Then my cousin had bought two for herself, which she did not want to keep, so my mother told her she would buy them from her.

Q. What do you know about the barrel murder?

A. Absolutely nothing at all.

Q. What do you know about Inzarillo?

A. He is considered of questionable character.

Q. Do you know the Terranova brothers?

A. They are the stepbrothers of Morello.

Q. Do you know anything about

A. Nobody, but this is the way it was done; they went to my mother and began to talk to her.

Q. What did he say to you?

A. Mrs. Morello and the mother of Morello and the brothers of Morello, so they went there and began to explain that they had got into very serious trouble. They also said that the only way—

Q. Who?

A. That he could be possibly saved would be to produce an alibi. I was to say that he was not out at any time he was accused of being out. I was to understand that he was the wrong man mentioned in court. They explained to my mother that the police knew that Dr. Romano had been their physician. It would be only natural that they called me; I could then testify that I was treating Morello at the time and he was unable to get out when the charges alleged, Morello was around and doing things in the counterfeiting plant.

They explained to my mother that there was no other man that could be called, because no other man would be trusted. The police knew I was Morello's physician, they said.

And then my mother asked them not to call me, that it would be putting me into trouble, and that I would have to abandon the business I had started.

They told her that it was an absolute necessity that I come down from Rochester and testify. If I did not come, they said, Morello would be sentenced, surely. "Naturally," they said, "we think if the doctor would come down, Morello will be free."

Q. He said that; did Terranova tell Morello you were going to testify?

A. We had arranged that.

Q. When did you first see him?

A. When they were bringing him down from the Tombs to the courtroom.

Q. Did Terranova speak to Morello?

A. Yes. He first spoke to Morello.

Q. And he told him that you were willing to testify for that period?

A. Yes.

Q. Then what did you say to Morello?

A. "I am going to testify for you that you had permission for this period, from the latter part of December to the first part of March."

Q. Up to the time you left for Rochester?

A. Yes. He said: "Don't fear; we are out, there is no danger at all; you need not fear, and I tell you that I was not out of the house at all; nobody saw me and nobody will know the difference, because I was as pale as a ghost at the time."

Q. They did not know we had eight men watching them at the time—

A. I came the first time, was here two days and was not called; I hung around the court and finally had to go back to Rochester and look after my business.

Q. When did you first see Dr. Brancato?

A. The second time I came down to New York.

Q. Did you know that he was going to testify too?

A. Terranova told me—

Q. What did he say?

A. "He is going to testify that you were in consultation." Terranova took me from the courthouse here to Dr. Brancato.

Q. What did you do down in Brancato's office?

A. We simply agreed as to what we were going to say; that is the time Dr. Brancato told me "we are up against it."

Q. Did Dr. Brancato tell you he had not treated him?

A. We did not argue about that. It was understood.

Q. It was understood that you had to swear falsely?

A. Because we could not do otherwise. So they came to me principally because I was his regular physician and they got Dr. Brancato—

Q. To come in after you went to Rochester?

A. I do not know what Dr. Brancato said.

Q. What happened after you got through testifying?

A. I rushed back to Rochester.

Q. Have you heard from them since you have been indicted?

A. My mother told the whole crowd that she would have nothing to do with them; didn't care what the consequences would be. She said: "You have ruined my son; the last good thing you did was done for us." They said to her: "Don't worry, everything will be all right."

Q. Did they ever discuss the counterfeit operations with you in any way?

A. No.

Q. The only thing you know about them is that they made you come down here and testify?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they threaten your mother?

A. No.

For making this statement, which shows up the methods whereby the "Black-Handers" operated and tried to escape the punishment of the court for the offenses with which they were charged, Dr. Romano was allowed to go free after sentence was suspended.

Dr. Brancato, the other physician, was tried twice, once the jury disagreeing and the second time he was found not guilty.

I have no criticism of the action of the jury in Dr. Brancato's case. It is simply in line with the "fortunes of war" that the government was unable to land Dr. Brancato.

Did You Know That He Was Connected With The "Black-Handers" Then?

nice little baby. Nothing happened at all—no disturbance. They came around to our house about once a week to see the baby. I kept on studying; never bothered my head about anything at all. I went out early in the morning and came back late; never bothered much with the affairs of the family.

That baby died. First it got the measles, then bronchial pneumonia. It was a little over two years old when it died.

Q. Did Morello marry this woman?

A. The woman he married is his present wife. He had got her from the other side. The sister (Morello's) had gone to the other side and arranged for this marriage. So nothing happened until after I was graduated. Then these people began to call on me as a doctor.

Q. He then lived in East One Hundred and Seventh Street?

A. I think in East One Hundred and Seventh Street, and he began to call on me; and then the brother-in-law and then cousin, etc., called.

Q. Who is his brother-in-law?

A. He has three brothers-in-law, Lupo, Lima and Salima.

Q. Which one of his brothers-in-law did you treat?

A. I treated all three of them.

Q. Are Lima and Salima in this country now?

A. Yes, in New York City.

Q. And did you treat other relatives?

A. I treated all their relatives, and all free of charge. They would call me; I would examine them, prescribe for nothing; I never could put any money in the bank.

The whole number of relatives, babies and patients, amounted to about sixty. It would not be one day, but the next day, and all the time they were on my hands. And I got no pay.

I tried to get hospital experience, and as soon as I was in the position to leave New York, I departed and I have never heard from him at all except when I received letters from my mother who told me that they kept on frequenting the house.

Q. Did you treat Cecala?

A. No, I never treated him.

Q. Did you ever treat any of the defendants besides Romano?

A. No. Lupo, Morello and Palermo, Palermo was operated on for something. At the time I was called in to give the other.

Q. What was Morello's business after he gave up the grocery?

A. Real estate; then they started the real estate deal, the Ignazio Florio Association. The way they worked that was—I don't know how many got together, about nine or ten, and they started in by building a house and selling it—they said: "We will build a house and sell it and in that way there will be a big profit and from that profit we got dividends." They got people to buy shares; the shares were payable. I think $5 down and $2 per month. So they came to my mother and she bought one share for herself.

Q. And you came down later? Did you go to your mother's house?

them? Did you treat them?

A. Yes, quite a long while; they had a disease which required that they come to my house every day, both Morello and the Terranovas.

Q. When was that?

A. That went on for about two years.

Q. What two years?

A. The two years just preceding 1907 and 1908.

Q. Was Morello born with that deformed hand?

A. Yes. He was so much crippled that they called him "Little Finger."

Q. Then you did not treat Morello in 1909?

A. At the time that I stated I did see him at No. 137 East One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street; also, I saw him in Rizzo's house, and he would complain of pains; he was always complaining.

Q. He was not sick in bed?

A. No.

Q. What do you think of Dr. Brancato?

A. I want to state the fact as honestly as I can. I think he was a scoundrel, too.

Q. Did he ever say about what he was going to testify?

A. He said we were up against a bad proposition. "Let us make our testimony as high as possible," he said. I asked him how we could avoid a thing of that kind. They would get us into trouble and we would have to stand for it.

Q. Who came to you and told you that you would have to testify?

So my mother wrote to me. "This is the last proposition they are going to give you," she said. "I think you cannot avoid coming down."

Q. She wrote and told you about it? Have you got that letter?

A. No. Naturally I would not keep a letter of that kind. I thought the matter over. I knew the character of the men I had to deal with. I knew that if I refused and Morello got a big sentence they would put the whole thing up to me. I thought of my mother down here going out and in at night, and I had something to fear. Probably if it had been for myself only I would not have considered it; I would have looked at it differently. It seemed that I had no alternative in a case of this kind. They telegraphed me.

Q. Who?

A. The brothers Terranova.

Q. What did they say?

A. Be in New York tomorrow to appear in court for the testimony of my brother.

Q. When was that sent to you? When did you get the telegram? Was it a day or two before you came down?

A. Yes, but I came down at once. The first time I came I remained here two days. Not being called, and not being able to leave my business for such a long period, I rushed back to Rochester.

Q. When did you come down again?

A. One week later at the time the detectives were testifying.

Q. And you came down later? Did you go to your mother's house?

A. Yes.

Q. Whom did you see there?

A. Terranova, Nick Terranova.

Q. What did he say to you?

A. "I am very sorry to trouble you. I know what you are losing. I know that you are doing this for us, but it is absolutely necessary. You are in no danger at all—he was all the time in the house—there will be no danger for you; you will be all right."

Q. Did he tell you what you had to say?

SEARCH FOR WILL BEING MADE

Missing Document Hold Disposition of Large Estate.

Who knows anything about the last will of Joseph W. Wooley, deceased, late of 119 W. Market-st.?

That's what Attorney E. T. Lippincott wants to find out and he is willing to pay money for the information.

Wooley, wealthy, retired citizen, died about six weeks ago, after a short illness from cerebral hemorrhage.

About a year ago his wife died. By the terms of her will, she left her estate, valued at about $8,000, to her husband.

Miss Maud Michael, 124 S. Jameson-ave., close friend of Wooley's wife, gave up her position as department manager of the Blum store, to become Wooley's housekeeper. For twenty months she served in such capacity.

Wooley told his friends and those of Miss Michael that he had drawn a will, in which Miss Michael was adequately cared for, in appreciation of her kindness and care of him.

But after his death, every effort to locate the document has thus far failed. In court, R. E. Davis, real estate operator, Opera House block, and a friend of Wooley's, was named administrator. Miss Michael refusing to serve in that capacity.

Attorney Lippincott, Miss Michael's attorney is trying to locate the will. He is advertising for a copy of the document of the original will itself.

WILL SPEAK HERE THURSDAY

Glenn E. Plumb

Glenn E. Plumb, author of the plan of railroad control that bears his name, will deliver a lecture in Memorial Hall, on Thursday evening, March 25th, under the auspices of the local Plumb Plan League, which is composed of several hundred workers in the railway and other industries.

No problem that today faces the American people so closely touches them as does the railroad problem, and upon the wisdom or unwisdom of its solution will depend in a very large measure the future prosperity and well being of the nation, members of the league hold.

On Thursday evening, Mr. Plumb, who is a well known lawyer, of Chicago, will give an address to the people of this community on the problems of the railroads. He is regarded as an authority on the subjects of rate-making and valuations, his expositions before the Interstate Commerce Commission on these subjects having commanded wide interest. He will explain the "Plumb Plan" for the reorganization of the railroads, the cardinal merit of which it seeks to place transportation on a basis of service instead of a basis of private profit.

Officers of the Lima Plumb Plan League, which will have charge of the meeting, are: E. J. Biglow, general chairman; and Rodney Stansbury, general secretary. The public is invited.

EXPORTS LOW
WASHINGTON.—Total exports of the United States during February were $646,000,000, the lowest figure since October, 1919; the commerce department announced. Friday. Imports were $457,000,000, a drop of $7,000,000 since January.

ENVIABLE RECORD MADE BY FRANKLIN CARS IN RUN ON COUNTRY ROADS

Not all of the noteworthy motoring records of 1919 were made on the race track. Spectacular as the contests at head Bay, the year just past brought to light a number of examples of sustained driving ability and fine motor performance that are worthy of more than passing interest.

Officials of the Franklin Automobile Company feel especially proud of the road records made by non-professional drivers in Franklin touring cars in different sections of the country during the past few months. A world's record for a long distance dirt road run was made by T. H. Cramer of Waterloo, Iowa, who on October 23, traversed 865.4 miles of Iowa, back country, dirt roads in 24 hours elapsed time. Mr. Cramer made the run (a good part of it in a heavy downpour of rain) in a stock Franklin touring car and drove the entire distance without relief. The car also carried two passengers who acted as official observers. The actual running time was 23 hours and 20 minutes or an average of 37.68 miles per hour.

Closely approaching this record is the remarkable run made by J. T. Peacha, of Duluth, Minn., who on July 22, covered 729.5 miles of Minnesota dirt road in a stock Franklin touring car in 21 hours and 37 minutes actual running time or an average of 33.74 miles per hour. The elapsed time was 23 hours and 30 minutes.

DORT

Quality Goes Clear Through

An outstanding and impressive fact about the Dort is that the testimony of one owner varies but in the slightest degree from what another owner has to say about the excellence of the car.

What difference there is can be fairly credited, we believe, to a difference in the care of the car or conditions under which the car was operated.

The essential thing to consider and remember is that the skill and soundness with which the Dort is built is bearing fruit in the shape of trouble-free travel at a very low upkeep cost.

You can confidently expect to secure from your Dort the same fine and faithful quality of service that thousands of other owners are now enjoying day in and day out.

THE CABIN

(LA BARACA) by VINCENTE BLASCO IBÁÑEZ
Translated From the Spanish by Frances Haffkins and Beatrice M. Nekota

As the days now were longer, there were more people on the road.

But this separation could not be prolonged for the impatient lovers, and one Sunday afternoon, Roseta, inactive, tired of walking in front of the door of her house, and believing she saw Tomet in all who passed, seized a green-varnished pitcher, and told her mother that she was going to bring water from the fountain of the Queen.

The mother allowed her to go. She ought to divert herself; poor girl! she did not have any friends and you must let youth claim its own.

The fountain of the Queen was the pride of all that part of the huerta, surrounded by the water of the wells and the red and muddy liquid which ran through the canals.

It was in front of an abandoned farmhouse, and was old and of great merit, according to the wisest of the huerta; the work of a Moor, according to Pimento, a monument of the epoch when the aristocrats were having sinners as they went about the world, so that orate, old Temba, declared with majesty.

In the afternoons, passing along the road, bordered by poplars with their restless foliage of silver, one might see groups of girls with their pitchers held motionless and erect upon their heads, reminding one with their rhythmic step and their slender figures of the Greek basket-bearers.

This definite gave to the Valencian huerta something of a Biblical flavor; it recalled Arabic poetry, which sings of the woman beside the fountain with the pitcher on her head, uniting in the same picture the two most vehement passions of the Oriental: beauty and water.

The fountain of the Queen was a four-sided pool, with walls of red stone, and the water below at the level of the ground. One descended by a half-dozen steps, always slippery and green with humidity. On the surface of the rectangle of stone facing the stairs a bas-relief projected, but the figures were indistinct; it was impossible to make them out.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy soft and beautiful.

OUCH! LUMBAGO PAIN! RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Instant Relief with a small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil."

Kidneys cause Backache? Not! They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

Rub old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" whenever you have sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains, as it is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

less water-skippers streaked across the clear surface with their delicate legs.

Those who had already filled their pitchers sat down on the edge of the pool, hanging their legs over the water and drawing them in with scandalized screams whenever a boy came down to drink and looked up at them.

It was a reunion of turbulent gamins. All were talking at the same time; they insulted each other, they played those who were absent, revealing all the scandal of the huerta, and the young people, free from parental severity, cast off the hypocritical expression assumed for the house, revealing an aggressiveness characteristic of the uncultured who lack expansion. These angelic brunettes, who sang songs to the Virgin and Hanes in the church of Alboraya so softly when the festival of the unmarried women was celebrated, now on being alone, became bold and enlivened their conversation with the curses of a teamster, speaking of secret things with the calmness of old women.

Roseta arrived here with her pitcher, without having met her brother.

troughed upon the road, in spite of the fact that she had walked slowly and had turned her head frequently, hoping at every moment to see him come forth from a path.

The noisy party at the fountain became silent on seeing her. The presence of Roseta at first caused stupefaction; somewhat like the apparition of a Moor in the church of Alboraya in the midst of high mass. Why did this pauper come here? Roseta greeted two or three who were from the factory, but they pinched their lips with an expression of scorn and hardly answered her.

Roseta descended to the fountain, filled the pitcher and stood up, casting anxious glances above the wall, around over all the plain.

"Look away, look away, but he won't come."

It was the niece of Pimento who said this; the daughter of a sister of Pimento, a dark, nervous girl, with an untamed and insolent nose, proud of being only a daughter, and of the fact that her father was nobody's tenant, as the four fields, which he was working, were called.

Yes, she might go on looking at the blood rise to her face; then she much as she pleased, but he would not come. Didn't the others know whom she was expecting? Her betrothed, the nephew of old Temba; a fine arrangement!

And the thirty cruel mouths laughed and laughed as though every laugh were a bite; not because they considered it a great joke, but in order to crush the daughter of the hated Batiste.

The shepherdess! . . . The divine shepherdess! . . . She shrugged her shoulders with indifference. She was expecting this; moreover the jokes of the factory had blunted her susceptibility.

She took the pitcher and went down the steps, but at the bottom the little mimicking voice of the niece of Pimento held her. How that small insect could sting! . . . She would not marry the grandson of old Temba. He was a poor fool, dying of hunger, but very honorable and incapable of becoming related to a family of thieves.

Roseta almost dropped her pitcher, she grew red as if the words, bearing at her heart, had made all became deathly pale. "Who is a thief? Who?" she asked with trembling voice, which made all the others at the fountain laugh.

Who? Her father. Pimento, her uncle, knew it well, and in the tavern of Copa nothing else was discussed. Did they believe that the past could be hidden? They had fled from their own pueblo because they were known there too well; for that reason they had come here, to take possession of bat was not theirs. They had even heard that Senor Batiste had been in prison for ugly crimes.

And thus the little viper went on talking, pouring forth everything that she had heard in her house and in the huerta; the lies forged by the dissolute fellows at the tavern of Copa, all invented by Pimento, who was growing less and less disposed to attack Batiste face to face, and was trying to annoy him, to prosecute and wound him with insults.

The determination of the father suddenly surged up in Roseta. Trembling, stammering with fury, she took the pitcher, which broke into pieces drenching the nearest girls, who protested in a chorus, calling her a stupid creature. But she was in no mood to take notice of such things!

"My father . . ." she cried, advancing toward the one who had insulted her. "My father a thief? Say that again and I will smash your face!" But the dark-haired girl did not have to repeat it, for before she could open her lips, she received a blow in the mouth, and the fingers of Roseta fixed themselves in her hair. Instinctively, impelled by pain, she seized the blond hair of the girl in turn, and for some time the two could be seen struggling together, bent over, pouring forth cries of pain and madness, with their foreheads almost touching the ground, dragged this way and that by the cruel tugs which each one gave to the head of the other. The hair-plugs fell out, loosening the brains; the heavy heads of hair seemed like banners of war, not floating and victorious, but crumpled and torn by the hands of the opponent.

Steels

Make the Maxwell Thrifty

SEVERAL million dollars have been expended to provide more elegance, more refinement, more comfort to the current Maxwells.

It is in ever so many ways a superior appearing car; superior, too, in action.

But not a single pound of weight has been added to burden the work of its great engine!

Therefore, despite the many processes of improvement, it doesn't cost a penny more to run a Maxwell than it did a year ago.

The underlying principle of every Maxwell is to give economic transportation.

This means light weight.

But it means strong steels, as well.

It is no easy trick to provide both lightness and strength in metal. Such a rare combination means high cost steels.

And you would find, if you compared a Maxwell with any car, that it equaled that car pound for pound in fine metals.

How such steels affect your pocketbook is obvious.

1. They are light in weight and hence give more mileage on a gallon of gasoline.

2. As they are fine steels they give long and uninterrupted wear.

Which are but two of many reasons for that definite tendency of world-wide friendship towards Maxwell.

In six years nearly 400,000 have found their answer to the motor car question in a Maxwell.

This year 100,000 Maxwells are being produced.

This will supply but 60% of the demand.

Love and Married Life

By IDA MCLONE GIBSON

THE MONEY QUESTION

I felt my eyes smart with tears as I listened to Alice's homily on marriage. With my mind's eye I looked over all my women acquaintances and I wondered if one of them could fulfill the requirements of a man who wanted only a doll. I had seen the nearest. She was clever. I knew, more like a cat than a doll. If she were warm and comfortable she must make a pretty plaything but I was certain that if things did not go to suit her she would un-sheath her velvet claw and scratch—scratch hard.

I was very glad when the music came in and told Alice and John they must leave the room. The doctor says, "That Mrs. Gordon must not be in touch with you that she is sleeping now."

Not to be disturbed. "Oh, I wouldn't disturb her in the world," said John heartily when he evidently looked at Alice for after a moment's silence he said, "Good heavens, how late it is. I have no idea it was half past 11, and I got to get up so early in the morning. I want to try and get away from here tomorrow and I've got to get the whole matter of Katherine's income and the house and everything left her by the will settled. I think she had better give me a power of attorney tomorrow, if she is able to do so, and then she will have no more trouble. I will transact all the business for her."

Alice began to laugh a little hysterically. "Then you are my practical brother, to do the very thing I have warned you against."

"What do you mean, we have said nothing about this before?"

"We have been talking all evening about it, John."

"I must be very stupid, for I do not see any possibility of understanding you. It seems to me that we have talked of many things, but none of them has been this little trifling of property that's coming to Katherine."

"Of course we haven't talked of that particular thing, but I have been trying to tell you for the last few hours that it isn't up to you to treat Katherine as if she were a beautiful child."

"Don't be foolish, Alice."

Can Not Understand It.

"I am not foolish, but I can't understand why a brilliant woman like Katherine should turn over to you a little property that makes her independent, especially because to my certain knowledge you never have given her any money since you were married."

"So she's been telling you that?" said John quickly, in an ugly tone of voice. "I suppose that's the reason you loaned her the money to go to Atlantic City."

"I didn't loan her any money."

"Where do you suppose she got it, surely she would not demand herself by borrowing Karl Shepard's?"

"John, if you were not my brother, I would be tempted to strike you."

he cares too much for her to lend it to her."

"You seem to know all about it—did she get it from her mother?"

Took the Wrong Course

"Why don't you ask Katherine where she got it? If you had been the kind of a man I wish you were—being my brother—you would write her as soon as she went to Atlantic City and sent her a check. Instead, you hoped to force her to come home to you, to get down on her knees, as it were, and make excuses simply because she didn't have money enough to pay for her sojourn at the seaside. If you want to know, I will tell you where she got the money. I bought the big diamond pin you gave her."

"Do you mean to tell me that Katherine sold her diamond pin, my last gift to her?"

"Of course she did, and had I been she I would have sold all my jewels."

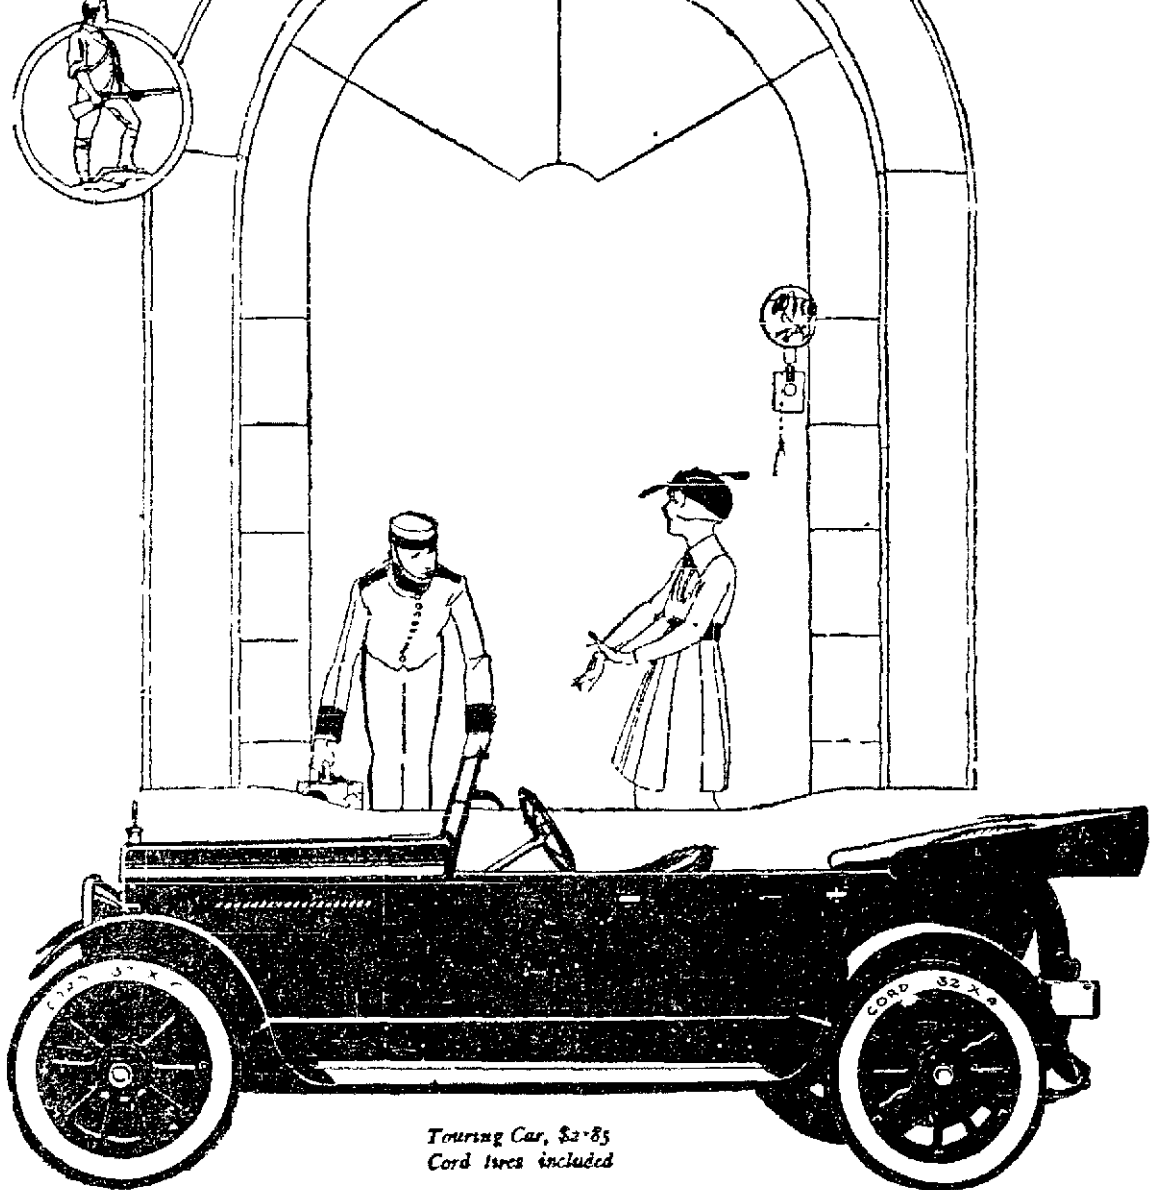

"How much did you give her for it?"

Beautiful and Serviceable

Someone has said: "Long lines blended with curves that recall Greek sculpture—quiet colors—restrained richness of upholstery—with here and there a touch of bright metal-work like high-lights on an artist's canvas."

Besides, the new Lexington Touring Car is a great road-car.

The reputation of its long line of eminently successful predecessors was built upon being the better cars of their times.

Likewise this new Lexington maintains its margin of leadership. Aside from its new style note, it is finer running, smoother riding, easier driving.

Let us show you this touring model—it has many exclusive mechanical features that you should know about before selecting your car.

DEMPSEY PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Champion Says He is "Not Worried at All" of Charges.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Maxine Dempsey divorced wife of Jack Dempsey and star witness against the fighter in the government charges that Jack was a slacker, was hid away Saturday by government agents. Close friends who tried to reach her were informed that Maxine was "not in."

Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, were arraigned Saturday. Both pleaded not guilty and were released on light bonds.

"I am not worried at all," Dempsey said. "I haven't had time to worry. The only time I ever worried was during five years ago when I didn't know whether I was going to get three squares a day."

Jack was asked regarding Maxine's charges.

"Maxine? Oh yes. She was saying things about me a long while ago."

Jack said he was anxious to get back to his movie work in Los Angeles.

"I'm some movie actor," he said. "Wait till you see me. I'll knock you dead."

Federal Judge Bean, before whom Dempsey and Kearns were arraigned announced that he would set the case for trial on April 3.

Gavin McNab, an attorney retained by an eastern client, it was learned, is to make a thorough investigation of charges against the sporting man. McNab refused to say who employed him.

Wonder What the Office Force Talks About?

"Say, fellows, have you noticed how gay the boss is lately? He's as pleasant as a book agent—hasn't had an off day for a week."

"Maybe he got a refund on his income tax?"

"Small chance! That wouldn't do it anyway."

"Well, business is pretty good. That might be it?"

"That never bothered him before."

"I've got it! It's the new office equipment he bought from Emerson W. Price!"

"Right-O! Never thought of that. It pleased him more than that trip to Palm Beach."

Short Shavings

An American tourist recently visited the ancient city of Chester and was startled by the loud clanging of the fire alarm bell.

Seeing others run, he ran too, and presently found himself one of a crowd gathered to witness the departure of the fire engines. In a short time the engines dashed out of the yard and disappeared down the street in a white dust and smoke.

With a view to gathering information, the tourist addressed himself to a man in the crowd.

"Say, mister, I suppose in an old place like this, containing so many timber-framed houses, you often have a fire?"

"Pretty often," assented the man. "How often, now, does a fire occur?" asked the American.

"Every time that bell rings," replied the man, nodding toward the bell tower.

The company had fallen out for a rest on its hike into the Arsonne. Nearby negro workers dropped in the sun. A bur six-foot Numbian driving a big army mule move into eight on his way to replenish the water supply at the front. For a whip he carried a five-pound hammer.

"Hey, there, Sam, where ya goin' wid dat new-fangled whip?" called one of the roadside loafers.

"Ise on mah way to build me a bungalow on de Hinenburg line," reported the other without a smile.

Cadomene the "Miracle Medicine"

Many People Have Written of the Seeming "Miracles" Performed by Cadomene Tablets.

They Are Only Recommended for Worn-out, Impoverished, Nervous People, But—

People have testified that they have been cured of rheumatism, headaches, stomach disorders, pains of neuralgia, etc., through the use of this great medicine- tonic, Cadomene Tablets. It only means that the Cadomene has helped to build up the strength of all organs and then nature has a chance to bring the cure. Therefore, if you are tired, sluggish, and your feet and hands are cold and clammy, and nervousness overwhelms you by sleeplessness, irritable temper, and your heart flutters while dizziness and trembling seize you at times, you may ward off serious consequences and become full of vigor, red blood and health for every vital organ of your body. Mr. J. W. Briggs, of R. R. No. 3, Fort Worth, Texas, writes: "I am using Cadomene Tablets and find them to be good in every way for an old man of 60." F. W. Barbeau, 1327 Inca street, Denver Colo., writes: "I have taken one package of Cadomene and it has put me on my feet and I feel fine." Cadomene builds up nerves and bodily vigor. All druggists.—Adv.

600 Gallons of Soft Water for Your Family Washing

More than 600 gallons of soft sparkling water play over your clothes every time you send them to us for laundering.

This use of velocity water in liberal quantities is one of the reasons why we are able to wash your things through and through with thoroughness.

When we wash your table linen, for example, we first give it a soaking in lukewarm water; next a washing in hot water and creamy suds; then more gentle sousing, followed by several rinses and finally a bath in bluing to bring out all the pure whiteness of the cloth.

Have you a method that compares with this? It is the most advanced of washing processes—a guarantee to you of complete clothes cleanliness and purity.

All our methods—down to a perfect ironing and punctual delivery, are equally modern.

There is no other remedy for the washday problem that is half so satisfactory. Telephone and we will send our representative for your family bundle.

Erie Railroad Company

Upon return of this property to its owners March 1st., a new organization was put into effect. Four regions are created and a Manager placed in charge of each Region. The Manager has a complete staff of officers covering all departments, making each Region complete in itself.

By decentralizing authority and placing it in the Manager the following benefits will result:

First—More intimate dealing with the public. Prompt settlement of questions arising between the public and the Railroad Company. Weeks formerly required settling many questions due to "red tape" will be reduced to days. The Manager on the ground will have authority to act.

Second—Closer relations between its employees and the Railroad Company resulting in more prompt handling of all questions arising between them, and closer contact with daily conditions of operation.

Third—Greater efficiency in operation and maintenance. The Regional organization will be responsible not only for securing business, but for its prompt and safe movement.

The Chicago Region extends between Marion, O., and Chicago, Ill., with headquarters at Chicago, traversing 269 miles of the best farming country in Ohio and Indiana, serving sixty-five cities and towns in these two states.

The local Divisional Representatives are:

E. I. BOWEN,
Superintendent,
Huntington.

J. H. HACKETT,
Division Freight Agent,
Huntington.

M. P. O'Brien,
Milk and Live Stock Agent,
Chicago.

L. B. Smith,
Division Passenger Agent,
Huntington.

and all questions taken up with Division Officials requiring consideration or authority of the regional officers, will be promptly submitted to and acted upon at regional headquarters.

With its line, double tracked, between Chicago and New York, serving numerous important cities in six states, and through its connections, all sections of the country, the Erie Railroad is in position to render the best possible service to the shipping and traveling public.

A. E. Wallace,
Manager,
Chicago.

W. V. KENNEDY,

Agent, Chicago.

PURE RICH MILK

Many Folks Are Underfed

You've seen them—folks who look as if they never had enough to eat. They have what the doctors call "malnutrition." They are underfed. They eat the wrong foods. Their appetites need coaxing.

"Lots of good milk" is the remedy. Milk is easily digested. It is the perfect food. It contains everything the body needs and supplies it in the right proportion.

Folks with appetites jaded with too much rich, highly spiced food should try the milk diet.

Drink a quart of milk a day—and go easy on the lobster a la nooburg. Say! you'll feel fine. And look fine, too.
